

For Goodness Sake: Money - A Tool for Good Stewardship

1. Where have you experienced the joy of generosity—either by giving or by receiving? What made that experience meaningful beyond the money or thing that was given?
2. It was said in the sermon, “Generosity is using what God has given you to participate in someone else’s flourishing.” Where do you currently see opportunities around you to create shalom—to help someone experience greater flourishing, peace, or wholeness?
3. Which of the five practices of generosity—starting, strategic, secret, sporadic, or sacrificial—most naturally connects with the way God may be inviting you to grow right now? Why? What would it look like to practice that without making it a burden or obligation?
4. The sermon ended with the reminder that our generosity flows from God's generosity toward us in Christ. How does remembering what God has already given you change the way you think about giving, sharing, and holding your resources?
